

image-1654263239965.png

- Bitwarden

[illegible]

The diagram illustrates the distribution of four entities across various categories, represented by colored rectangles. The categories are color-coded: light blue, light green, light orange, light purple, light pink, light yellow, light grey, and light brown.

- Bitwarden (dark blue text): Represented by a light blue rectangle (top left), a light green rectangle (top middle), a light orange rectangle (top right), and a light purple rectangle (middle right).
- Firefox (dark blue text): Represented by a light green rectangle (top middle), a light orange rectangle (top right), and a light purple rectangle (middle right).
- Chrome (dark blue text): Represented by a light blue rectangle (top left), a light green rectangle (top middle), a light orange rectangle (top right), a light purple rectangle (middle right), a light pink rectangle (bottom left), and a light yellow rectangle (bottom middle).
- Linux (dark blue text): Represented by a light blue rectangle (top left), a light green rectangle (top middle), a light orange rectangle (top right), a light purple rectangle (middle right), a light pink rectangle (bottom left), and a light yellow rectangle (bottom middle).

image-1654263451324.png